SoftBank invests in the UK

Softbank's ARM purchase is “a big vote of confidence” in British business.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Hammond

The Japanese technology group, SoftBank, acquired ARM Holdings plc, the UK-based world leader in semiconductor intellectual property technology, for approximately £24bn just weeks after the UK voted to leave the EU. This is the largest-ever acquisition of a European technology business. SoftBank has pledged to double ARM's employee headcount in the UK over the next five years and also maintain ARM's global headquarters in Cambridge during that period as part of its transaction commitments.

Hitachi's Intercity Trains Create 1,600 Jobs in the UK

Japanese Companies are helping to rebuild UK railway services: Hitachi's Class 395 became the first high-speed passenger train in the UK in 2009. The service has dramatically reduced journey times between London and Kent. Hitachi's new Class 800/801 electric and bi-mode trains will be used on both the Great Western Main Line and the East Coast Main Line – and the trains will be built at their new rail vehicle manufacturing facility in Newton Aycliffe, creating 730 new jobs in County Durham as well as major opportunities for UK partner companies in its supply chain.
