

ロンドンオリンピック・パラリンピック開催期間中の公共交通について

ロンドンオリンピック・パラリンピック開催期間中、多くの方が英国を訪れるのに伴い、交通が非常に混雑することが予想されています。それに伴い、公共交通機関も通常とは異なる運用を行い、地下鉄駅の入出場制限や閉鎖も予定されています。

ロンドンオリンピック・パラリンピック開催期間にロンドンに滞在される方は、下記のサイト等を利用し、交通情報を事前に確認されることをお勧めいたします。

1 開催期間中の交通状況について

The screenshot shows the 'Get Ahead of the Games' website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links: 'Travel in affected areas', 'Things you should know', 'Going to the Games', and 'Advice for businesses'. The main heading reads 'The Games are coming' with the subtext 'Get around more easily by planning ahead'. Below this, a paragraph explains that the Olympic and Paralympic Games in 2012 will bring large events to the UK, leading to busier roads and public transport. A search bar is present with 'London' entered and a 'Go' button. To the right, a map of the UK is shown with various cities labeled: Glasgow, Newcastle, Manchester, London (highlighted with a red box and a callout bubble saying 'ロンドンをクリック'), Weymouth & Portland, Cardiff, South-East, Windsor & Eton, Surrey, Sevenoaks, Cheshunt & Waltham Cross, and Leigh-on-Sea & Hadleigh. A cartoon character holding a map is on the left. The Olympic and Paralympic Games logos and dates are also visible: Olympic Games (27 July - 12 August 2012) and Paralympic Games (29 August - 9 September 2012).

Along with plenty of excitement and an incredible atmosphere, the Olympic Games will bring thousands of visitors to London and the UK. This means the transport system will be extremely busy – so if you're going to a London 2012 sports event or ceremony, it's important to plan and book your journey well in advance.

There is no spectator parking at London 2012 venues, except for a limited number of Blue badge spaces that must be booked in advance – so we recommend you go by public transport.
